1                   THE CLERK: Calling case 14-CV-2317, The United 2 States of America vs. The Town of Oyster Bay, et al. Counsel, 3 please state your appearance on the record.

4                   MR. GOLDBERGER: Good morning, Your Honor. Michael 5 Goldberger, Assistant United States Attorney for the United 6 States.

7                   MR. HERMAN: Good morning, Your Honor. Anthony 8 Herman from Covington & Burling.

9                   THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. We are 10 here on Defendant's Motion Seeking Clarification, docket entry
11 62. I always get a little concerned when I see the word 12 clarification in a motion. So I think I understand what's 13 going on but, Mr. Herman, why don't you tell me what your 14 position is. You don't have to stand. It's up to you, but 15 you need to be by a mike.

16                   MR. HERMAN: (Indiscern.).

17                   THE COURT: If you want to stand, you can use the 18 lectern because you'll be --

19                   MR. HERMAN: I'm happy to sit, Your Honor --

20                   THE COURT: Fine.

21                   MR. HERMAN: -- if that's fine with the Court. Your 22 Honor, our position really is quite simple. Repeatedly 23 Mr. Goldberger has asked the Court to extend the number of 24 depositions beyond the presumptive 10 to 20. And repeatedly 25 the Court has said I'm willing to consider that at the proper

1 time. And that seems to us to be a perfectly reasonable and 2 fine result. And at the last status conference, when the 3 issue came up, Your Honor advised Mr. Goldberger take your 4 next -- take six more, that will be a total of 10, and then on 5 December 15th, we'll come back for status and see where we 6 are.

7 Well, Mr. Goldberger noticed six and the six did not 8 include at least one person who I think everyone would say is 9 critically important to the case and that's Supervisor John 10 Venditto, who's a named Defendant in the case. The six also 11 did not include David Portman, who Mr. Goldberger described 12 before Your Honor as someone -- a consultant, former 13 consultant to the town with {quote} "driving knowledge" of the 14 facts. And finally did not name Jack Libert, who, at least 15 Mr. Goldberger believes, is critically important to the case 16 and said as much to Your Honor.

17 So what it looks to us is if Mr. Goldberger is trying to 18 gain the system to preordain getting more than 10 depositions 19 and we think that's unfair and we're asking the Court to 20 clarify that so the parties know the rules of the road.

21 THE COURT: I'm not sure that that's the standard, 22 though. Let's say he took the Defendants and the depositions 23 in the order that you perceive to be most appropriate, and 24 then he came back and said I need the six who are actually 25 noticed now. The standard isn't who are the best deponent,

1       it's going to be if these other six have discoverable
2       information, isn't it?

3                MR. HERMAN: Well, here's the thing, Your Honor. I 4       don't think -- and I mean to speak for Mr. Goldberger. He'll 5       speak --

6                THE COURT: He'll get a chance to speak as long as 7       he likes.

8                MR. HERMAN: -- for himself. But it seems to me --
9       take Supervisor Venditto.

10               THE COURT: Yes.

11               MR. HERMAN: I think it's undeniably the fact that 12       they're going to want to depose him. I mean, I certainly 13       would want to depose him if I were --

14               THE COURT: Well, what if he thinks these six people 15       may have information that make that deposition more fruitful?

16               MR. HERMAN: Well, but isn't the proper course to 17       take Mr. Venditto's deposition first and then -- I mean, 18       you're supposed to take your best --

19               THE COURT: That's a strategic decision that 20       Mr. Goldberger's got to make, right?

21               MR. HERMAN: He's supposed to take your best 10.
22       Well, here's the problem. He's going to -- it preordains him 23       getting -- Mr. Goldberger getting 11, and 12, and 13, and 24       there's a burden associated with that to the Town. The Town 25       is a municipality.

1                   THE COURT: Yes.

2                   MR. HERMAN: It's not a big company. There are 3 legal fees incurred.

4                   THE COURT: Yes.

5                   MR. HERMAN: It's burdensome to the Town. And that 6 -- it seems to us that most Courts, I think, a suggestion of 7 most Courts is that it's incumbent on the proponent seeking to 8 take the depositions, take the best 10, and then to go from 9 there. And we think that that would be the test here, Your 10 Honor.

11                  THE COURT: All right. Mr. Goldberger?

12                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Well, I don't think that is the 13 standard, Your Honor. The standard is whether the witnesses 14 who we seek to depose have discoverable information and have 15 relevant admissible information.

16                  THE COURT: I'm sorry, before you go, you don't 17 disagree that the six that are named may have some -- if 18 they're the final six, you have no objection?

19                  MR. HERMAN: We would not object --

20                  THE COURT: Okay.

21                  MR. HERMAN: -- to any of the six, Your Honor. No.

22                  THE COURT: All right. Okay. I'm sorry, go ahead, 23 Mr. Goldberg.

24                  MR. GOLDBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. No, I think 25 it's fairly simple. All right, let me just make one

1 correction. Mr. Herman said earlier that Mr. Libert was not 2 named among the six. Mr. Libert is, in fact, one of the 3 six --

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. GOLDBERGER: -- people named.

6 MR. HERMAN: (Indiscern.) --

7 MR. GOLDBERGER: If I could just finish, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Let him finish. You'll get the -- 9 everybody will speak as long as they like.

10 MR. HERMAN: Okay. Thank you.

11 MR. GOLDBERGER: The standard is, as you say, is a 12 question of whether these witnesses have discoverable 13 information. And what Mr. Herman is attempting to do is 14 essentially attempting to try to drive our strategy in terms
15 of taking depositions. And I think you identified correctly 16 that we are seeking to take the depositions of witnesses 17 before Mr. Venditto and before Mr. Portman in order to be able 18 to make sure that we have all the information we need to make 19 those depositions most useful and most productive, and also 20 not spend a lot of time wasting our time taking depositions or 21 asking questions in those depositions that those individuals 22 might not have the answer to.

23 This is a very challenging case because there are so many 24 witnesses in the case who have information. This is not a 25 small car accident where there were three people or two

1       witnesses involved. This is about the decision making and 2       implementation processes of the Town of Oyster Bay, which is 3       not something -- for two programs, not just one that is -- and 4       that decision making process, the process of creating the 5       program was among many people.

6               The first depositions we took were witnesses we thought 7       would be very informative for us. And in fact, what we 8       discovered when we took the depositions of Leslie Maccarone 9       and Frank DeStefano, who were the Commissioner of Planning and 10      Development and the Deputy Commissioner, and the other 11      depositions and the documents that indicated those were people 12      who were very heavily involved in the processes. Both 13      witnesses essentially either had no recollection of things, 14      even simple things like signing a document, but also just did 15      not have that material information that we were looking for.

16               So, you know, in some senses, discovery is the process of 17      finding out who the important witnesses are and who are not, 18      learning which witnesses might be actually in possession of 19      the material information. Ultimately, we are going to take 20      the depositions of Mr. Venditto and Mr. Portman and other 21      individuals. But I think we need to be the ones to determine 22      the strategy and the order, not Mr. Herman.

23               MR. HERMAN: I take no issue with that up to 10. Of 24      course, Mr. Goldberger --

25               THE COURT: Well, look, I mean --

1                   MR. HERMAN: So, Your Honor, respectfully.

2                   THE COURT: Yes.

3                   MR. HERMAN: If the Court's ruling is that 4                   Mr. Goldberger gets his 10, any 10 that he sees fit, and then 5                   he gets Venditto and Portman and Libert. By the way, Libert 6                   is not among the six that Mr. Goldberger told us he wanted to 7                   depose. He is in the letter to the Court, but in the letter 8                   to the Court, there are actually seven. So I'm a little 9                   perplexed about Mr. Libert.

10                  THE COURT: Okay, I don't --

11                  MR. HERMAN: But put that to the side, Your Honor.

12                  THE COURT: Okay.

13                  MR. HERMAN: If Mr. Goldberger says he needs to take 14                  a few other -- some other people before he gets to Venditto, 15                  Portman, and Libert, then he should be confined to three or 16                  four. And then we have no problem with it. All we're saying 17                  is there's a presumptive 10. Mr. Goldberger has not met the 18                  burden. Every Court says that 10 is presumptive. The party 19                  seeking to go beyond the 10 has the burden of showing why 20                  those -- why the additional deponents are necessary and not 21                  cumulative or otherwise, we'd be here with 30, and 40, and 50 22                  depositions.

23                  THE COURT: Well, there are cases with 30, and 40, 24                  and 50 depositions.

25                  MR. HERMAN: There -- to be sure, there are, Your

1 Honor. And Mr. Goldberger may have an opportunity to put that 2 showing on before the Court, but he's got to make that 3 showing. He can't gain the system by preordaining the fact 4 that there are going to be more than 10, and that's what he's 5 proposing to do, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Go ahead.

7 MR. GOLDBERGER: Nothing of the sort, Your Honor.
8 And in fact what Mr. Herman is really trying to do is he's 9 objecting to the fact that the Court said three weeks ago take 10 your next six depositions. To date, despite the fact that 11 we've had numerous conversations, they have not provided me 12 with a single -- I gave them a bunch of dates for depositions.
13 I've gotten no response other than these letters. This is a 14 question for the Court at the point -- I mean, I'm happy to 15 discuss this now. And frankly, I would love to resolve this 16 issue so that we can go forward with depositions without 17 constant bickering and back and forth. But this is a question 18 that's premature because the Court directed us to take the 19 next six depositions and all we're getting from the other side 20 is opposition.

21 MR. HERMAN: But the problem, Your Honor, is we all 22 know that when Mr. Goldberger comes back and says, okay, I've 23 taken these 10. And now I need supervisor Venditto, and I
24 need Deputy Town Supervisor Leonard Genova, and I need David 25 Portman, and I need Jack Libert. He's not on the list. I

1 don't know if he is or he isn't.

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 MR. HERMAN: You're going to say, Mr. Herman, isn't 4 that right? And I'm going to be hard pressed to argue it's 5 not. How can I possibly argue that deposing the Defendant in 6 the case, the main Defendant isn't appropriate? It is. Of 7 course it is.

8 THE COURT: Look, you've teed up the issue. Let me 9 ask you this, this is labeled -- well, it's not really labeled, 10 but you call it a Motion -- a Letter Motion Seeking 11 Clarification. In your perfect world, you walk into here 12 today, you walk out. What is the relief you've gotten?

13 MR. HERMAN: I think what we need -- the relief that 14 we're seeking, Your Honor, is to suggest to Mr. Goldberger 15 that he take his best 10.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. HERMAN: And if Venditto, Genova, Portman, 18 Libert are among the best 10, they should be among the best 19 10.

20 THE COURT: Here's my problem with that. As a 21 native to this case, it's obvious that those would be the best 22 10. But the precedent of me or any Judge picking the best 10
23 for the purposes of constructing a deposition schedule, I 24 think is fraught. I do. I don't think that's the role of the 25 Court here. Mr. Goldberger is able to choose 10 and make --

1 and risk whatever he's risking in doing so given the nature of 2 the presumption under Rule 30, and then come back and explain 3 why he chose those 10 and why the next 5 are necessary or 4 whatever it is, and we go from there.

5 MR. HERMAN: But, Your Honor, how are we going to be 6 able to argue successfully that it's not appropriate -- let's
7 take Supervisor Venditto.

8 THE COURT: Right.

9 MR. HERMAN: Who's a named Defendant in the case.
10 How are we going to persuade Your Honor that it's not 11 appropriate to take his deposition? Even if six of the 12 deponents turned out to be marginal and almost silly, and by 13 the way, we're not objecting, but I think we're going to be 14 able to make that case to Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: That's also, I think, a little bit 16 tricky. On the one hand saying they're peripheral and silly, 17 on the other hand not objecting to them being deposed. Now, I 18 have no idea who these people are or what they're going to 19 say.

20 MR. HERMAN: They're former -- some of them are 21 current Town employees. Some of them are former Town 22 employees.

23 THE COURT: So I thought they had votes on the 24 process or --

25 MR. HERMAN: So, I mean, yeah -- I mean -- the other

1       thing to keep in mind, Your Honor, here that's important is 2       Mr. Goldberger conducted the interviews, voluntary interviews 3       of some 20 people.

4                   THE COURT: Okay.

5                   MR. HERMAN: Look, I appreciate the Court's dilemma 6       here. And I understand that in a perfect world a proponent of 7       deposition should be able to take 10 that the deponent wants 8       to take within the bounds of the rules. But here we have a 9       situation where it's going to result in more than 10, 10      (indiscern.) would be more than 10. And that's a burden and 11      cost to a municipality that just went through an election 12      where one of the issues was the municipality is spending too 13      much money.

14                  THE COURT: Look, I get all of that and I'm 15      sympathetic to your position. I just don't know at the end of 16      the day that any Court's in a position to say Mr. Goldberger 17      not these six, those six.

18                  MR. HERMAN: Well, why not --

19                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Your Honor, if I may add one 20      other --

21                  MR. HERMAN: -- give Mr. Goldberger three 22      depositions and then say come back and say why you want the 23      next three and not among Venditto, Genova, Portman, Libert.

24                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Your Honor --

25                  THE COURT: Yes, go ahead.

1                   MR. GOLDBERGER: -- I may be able to make this 2 easier for Mr. Herman as well as for the Court, okay?

3                   THE COURT: That would be nice.

4                   MR. GOLDBERGER: And that's fairly simple. If we 5 did it Mr. Herman's way. If we said, Mr. Herman, okay, we 6 will take the people that you think we should be deposing 7 right now, we would inexorably be back here making the same 8 arguments about the other witnesses that we would seek to 9 depose.

10                  THE COURT: Well, that was the point I started with.

11                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Exactly. And Mr. Herman has 12 indicated he has no objection, no substantial objection, to us 13 deposing the people that we have already noticed. So what 14 we're faced with is a situation where it's not that Mr. Herman 15 really objects to the 10, it's that he is trying to manipulate 16 the deposition order for strategic purposes more than anything 17 else.

18                  MR. HERMAN: Not so, Your Honor.

19                  MR. GOLDBERGER: And I think that's just a cynical 20 effort to try to control the situation that he might not be 21 able to otherwise.

22                  THE COURT: Well, leaving cynicism aside, response.
23 Say again.

24                  MR. HERMAN: Mr. Goldberger's allegation is beneath 25 him. He knows better than that. I would tell Your Honor all

1   we're trying to do is cap the depositions at some reasonable 2   number. 10 is the presumptive limit. I don't care who 3   Mr. Goldberger takes among the 10. And if Mr. Goldberger
4   wants to come back after taking the Defendant and the others
5   who are obvious among the 10 and make the case that he needs 6   others, and he succeeds in persuading the Court of that, 7   that's fine. I'm skeptical that he'll be able to do that.

8                 THE COURT: Okay.

9                 MR. GOLDBERGER: Your Honor --

10                THE COURT: You're less skeptical.

11                MR. GOLDBERGER: I'm sorry?

12                THE COURT: Are you less skeptical that you'll be 13   able to do that?

14                MR. GOLDBERGER: I am less skeptical. The list that 15   we had submitted to the Court which was attached to our letter 16   and was also a -- the subject -- which we handed up the last 17   time we were here makes pretty clear that this is the core 18   group of people as we understand it from the documents that 19   were involved in two programs. And we actually have three -- 20   six people for the golden age program, okay? There are four 21   that we've taken so far, which leaves approximately 11 people 22   including six counsel members, and those depositions are not 23   going to be long, Your Honor.

24                THE COURT: Okay.

25                MR. GOLDBERGER: These are people who have some

1 knowledge of the circumstances under which the legislation was 2 passed and that is highly relevant. Now it may be that 3 Mr. Herman wants to try to negotiate, try to work something 4 out so we take certain depositions and leave other ones aside 5 because they may be -- he may make a representation to us that 6 they are unnecessary, or redundant, or cumulative, or 7 whatever.

8 THE COURT: In other words, take three counsel 9 members and say, look, the other three are just going to say 10 the same thing.

11 MR. GOLDBERGER: Well, exactly --

12 THE COURT: Is that -- okay.

13 MR. GOLDBERGER: -- if that's the representation 14 he's going to make. It may be that ultimately we learn 15 something different and we need to take those other counsel 16 members. But what we're hearing here is this rigid -- an 17 effort at a rigid adherence to a presumption of 10 that is 18 based on the notion that that's all we should get even though 19 this is a complex case, and even though the case law is quite 20 clear that so long as we can show that these are relevant 21 witnesses with discoverable information that the Court should, 22 under Rule 26 and Rule 30, provide -- actually must allow for 23 those depositions.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. GOLDBERGER: That's all we're seeking to do.

1     And right now, quite frankly, all we're trying to do, Your 2     Honor, is take the six.

3                   THE COURT: Right.

4                   MR. HERMAN: You see, Your Honor, and that's the 5     point. Mr. Goldberger is trying to relitigate once again for 6     the third time the opportunity to take more than 10. And 7     twice before, I think Your Honor had so no, this isn't the 8     right time.

9                   THE COURT: Well, yes and no in a sense. This is 10    your motion. You brought us here, not him.

11                  MR. HERMAN: I did, Your Honor.

12                  THE COURT: So that's -- I understand your point, 13     but I don't know if that's entirely accurate. I've heard both 14     sides. I get your position. I understand what your concern 15     is. I understand your intent. I understand the Government's 16     position with respect to the number of depositions. At its 17     core, the Government thinks it's going to be more than 10.
18     Whether or not that's appropriate, we will see. But right now 19     the -- I don't know how you grant or deny a Motion for 20     Clarification.

21                  I guess the Motion for Clarification is granted and 22     clarified as follows. The Defendants are directed to give -- 23     produce the six witnesses that were noticed as they are 24     noticed. The Court is not going to step in and reconfigure 25     the order of the depositions. I don't think that's

1 appropriate. So get those dates together. We still have a 2 status conference on for the middle of December I think.

3 MR. GOLDBERGER: We do, Your Honor --

4 THE COURT: We can move that, though, to accommodate 5 the dates. That's not -- I'm more (indiscern.) about moving 6 the case, not the dates on which we reappear. So give me a 7 reasonable amount of time for us to have the status 8 conference. And I'll even push it out further if you want to 9 letter brief the Motion for -- just to allow for a briefing of 10 that if, indeed, we go that way. It looks like we are.

11 MR. GOLDBERGER: Yeah.

12 THE COURT: But I think it can be briefed in a 13 letter motion. I'll give you more pages if there are so many 14 witnesses that you need a couple of sentences about each.

15 MR. GOLDBERGER: Sure. That's easy, Your Honor.
16 Your Honor, at this point we have -- between now and the 18th 17 only one date -- one week -- of possible -- possible for the 18 depositions because as I had indicated at our last conference, 19 I'm on annual leave from the 8th to the 15th. So I can do -- 20 I'm certainly available to take depositions next week. I can 21 do it the week of the 21st, the 28th into January. So --

22 THE COURT: The 28th of?

23 MR. GOLDBERGER: Of December, Your Honor. I mean, I 24 know that interferes with some of the holidays and I don't 25 want to upset anybody's holidays. I'm just saying my 1 availability.

2 THE COURT: No, no, no. You're both going to get to 3 weigh in on your calendars. That's not the problem.

4 MR. GOLDBERGER: Of course.

5 THE COURT: I understand what you said. So you 6 think you can get it done by the 20th of December?

7 MR. GOLDBERGER: No, Your Honor. I don't expect 8 that we can.

9 THE COURT: Okay, when do you think you can get it 10 done by?

11 MR. GOLDBERGER: I would say -- let's say
12 January 15th at this point.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Herman?

14 MR. HERMAN: I think that is optimistic. I'm 15 hopeful that we can. The problem is, Your Honor, and 16 Mr. Goldberger was aware of this there was a very complicated 17 Town election that only settled I think it was Thursday or 18 Friday.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. HERMAN: And so we lost some time in being able 21 to reach out to people. Some of these people are third party 22 Defendants. We're still trying to work out whether we're 23 going to represent them or not.

24 THE COURT: All right. Why don't we do this? Why 25 don't we make it January 22nd, and I'll give you an extra week

1 to produce everybody. I'd rather you get it done before you 2 come back. After that deposition occurs, I'm going to give 3 you some time to brief letter motions if this does go in that 4 direction. From the 22nd to -- how much time, Mr. Goldberger, 5 would you need to file a letter motion regarding the -- 6 whatever the number is?

7 MR. GOLDBERGER: A couple of weeks, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: All right. So we'll say February 12th 9 for moving papers.

10 MR. HERMAN: Your Honor, I'm sorry to do this. I'm 11 looking at my calendar. I'm actually away -- out of the 12 country from the 9th of January until 19th, so I'm a little 13 bit --

14 THE COURT: Of January?

15 MR. HERMAN: Yes. I'm a little worried about the 16 22nd for the status conference.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. HERMAN: And I'm worried only in the sense, I'm 19 worried we aren't going to be able to get anything done.

20 THE COURT: All right. We'll make it the 29th. You 21 still get your two weeks, Mr. Goldberger.

22 MR. GOLDBERGER: Thank you, Your Honor.

23 THE COURT: So that will make it -- wait, I made a 24 mistake anyway. That still makes it February 12th.

25 MR. GOLDBERGER: I'm sorry?

1                   THE COURT: I made a mistake calculating it. It 2 still makes it February 12th.

3                   MR. GOLDBERGER: Okay.

4                   THE COURT: Mr. Herman, how much time do you need to 5 oppose?

6                   MR. HERMAN: I'm sorry, Your Honor?

7                   THE COURT: How much time do you need to oppose?

8                   MR. HERMAN: Two weeks.

9                   MR. GOLDBERGER: And these are three page letter 10 motions, Your Honor?

11                  THE COURT: Well, we're going to -- I'm going to 12 talk about that in one second. Let me just get the date down.

13                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Sure.

14                  THE COURT: The 26th. My recollection is that you 15 said you were anticipating something between 15 and 20 16 depositions if you had your druthers, Mr. Goldberger. How 17 much -- how many pages would you need to brief this in a 18 letter motion? Because if you're going to give me a little 19 bit about the witnesses, you may need more than three pages.
20 I'd rather you not, like, you know tamper with margins and 21 footnotes and attachments. Just give me a real letter motion.

22                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Sure, yeah, no I'd prefer not to do 23 that either, Your Honor. Each of these witnesses can be 24 described fairly briefly as to their --

25                  THE COURT: Okay.

1                   MR. GOLDBERGER: A paragraph for each, but that's a 2 lot of paragraphs already. So I don't know to be --

3                   THE COURT: You may be able to group them, too.

4                   MR. GOLDBERGER: I'm sorry?

5                   THE COURT: You may be able to group them.

6                   MR. GOLDBERGER: Yes, absolutely.

7                   THE COURT: If there are four council members, they 8 may be --

9                   MR. GOLDBERGER: Absolutely.

10                  THE COURT: Okay. So what do you think?

11                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Seven pages, Your Honor.

12                  THE COURT: Mr. Herman, would you like seven pages?

13                  MR. HERMAN: Seven pages is fine, Your Honor.

14                  THE COURT: Okay.

15                  MR. GOLDBERGER: Thank you, Your Honor.

16                  THE COURT: I don't think this is a particularly 17 hard issue to wrap one's brain around, so I don't think you'll 18 need an oral argument for it. If I read the papers and I want 19 to call you in, I'll do it then. Otherwise, I'll save 20 everyone a trip. Then from that point, I guess, we'll figure 21 out discovery going forward once it's -- once you have the 22 ruling. Okay? Is there anything else, Mr. Goldberger?

23                  MR. GOLDBERGER: No, Your Honor.

24                  THE COURT: Mr. Herman?

25                  MR. HERMAN: Thank you, Your Honor, no.

1                   THE COURT: All right. Thank you both. We are 2 concluded.
